

Ms. Jin Li

Program: International Intellectual Property Law

Address:
2630 S. Shields
Chicago , IL 60616

Telephone: (312) 375-5739
E-mail: athenali57@gmail.com

Ms. Li is a researcher for National Key, a research project held by the Chinese government. At National Key, she has worked on a strategy of the development, management and protection of Chinese enterprises' Intellectual Property and suggested a blueprint of for a three phased IP strategy. She has studied the IP strategies of foreign companies, incorporating them into a model for Chinese companies to use. She also participated in the China Science and Technology Law Academy, 2006 Summit, in Xi'an. She is also a legal assistant intern at Deheng Law Office.

Ms. Li received her Bachelor's of Electrical Information Engineering from Beijing Union University in 2004. She then received her Master's in Intellectual Property Law at Tsinghua University in 2007, where she ranked fifth in her class. Currently, she is pursuing an LL.M. in International Intellectual Property Law at Chicago-Kent College of Law.

Ms Li is a member of the Intellectual Property Law Society of Chicago-Kent College of Law. She wrote an article titled The Development of Foreign Small and Medium Enterprises Intellectual Property Strategy and its Revelation to China which was published in January 2007 in "International Conference on Globalization and the Protection of Intellectual Property". Ms. Li speaks Mandarin and English.

Contact information in China:

Email: athenali57@gmail.com