Ms. Wu has worked at various businesses or organizations as an intern, including a bank, legal consulting firm, the equity and assets exchange commission authorized by the Shanghai government and an American technology company. Most of her jobs were related to the financial and legal market. At Shanghai United Assets and Equity Exchange (SUAEE), she was responsible for supervising the legal documents concerning assets and equity transactions of state-owned properties. She also drafted supervising reports by which she honed her legal writing skills and sharpened her knowledge of business law. After working for SUAEE, Ms. Wu interned at Applied Biosystems Group, followed by Shanghai Changjiang Law Firm. At Applied Biosystems, she assisted the department manager for business development with assessing the target market and analyzing legal problems concerning foreign investment in China. While at Shanghai Changjiang Law Firm, Ms. Wu was an attorney assistant for the preparation of materials for trial.

Ms. Wu received her Bachelor's degree in 2007 in legal English and a minor certificate in Jurisprudence, ranking in the top 10% and graduating with Honors at East China University of Political Science and Law (ECUPSL). Her dissertation focused on economic law and intellectual Property and was titled "Balance between Proper Patent Monopoly and Obviation of Patent Abuse in China". In graduate school, Ms. Wu is focusing on economic and business law, with a research project on financial service law. Ms. Wu is currently an exchange student at Chicago-Kent College of Law with a tuition scholarship and she is concurrently pursuing an LL.M in Financial Service law at Chicago-Kent.

While at ECUPSL, Ms. Wu was a member of the Debate Associate and served as instructor of the debate team at the Foreign Language Institution. Meanwhile, she was the Assistant Secretary of the External Liaison Department of Students' Union and a member of the Student Volunteer Team. Further, Ms. Wu was a four-time scholarship winner and was named Best Student Cadre twice at ECUPL. Ms. Wu speaks Mandarin and English.
